Motivation

Architecture was never a career that I strongly considered until I spent a day at an architectural firm in Stellenbosch, and I was able to place myself in the architect's shoes. It was that day that I realized exactly what I wanted to do for the rest of my life. I want to be able to bring people's visions to life. To be able to transfer ideas to paper to brick.

I want to work with people, plotting ideas, solving problems and compromising in order to create these fantasies. I was trailing behind the architect, the builders and the house owners at a building site and became aware of just how much the architect's opinion is valued. All the negotiations and future ideas excited me, and I realized that if I am unable to pursue a career in Architecture, my life would be rather dull.
